FRIDAY, December 4, 1868.

Look Out For the X Mark!
The expiration of subscriptions will be indicated by the X mark, and if the "News" is not desired longer by the party so notified we shall expect to be apprised of the fact.

The statement by a Knoxville paper that it was in accordance with the expressed wish of the stockholders of the B. & Va. Railroad that Col. Thomas H. Calloway was elected as President of that road, is not warranted by the facts as we have them. There were two tickets voted for, and at the head of each stood the name of Col. Jacques. It was fairly understood that he was being voted for in the election of the directors. Accordingly the new board unanimously elected him to the presidency, as was announced in our last week's issue, and the position was immediately declined by that gentleman. There was then but one more step remaining to consummate the plan of which the friends of Col. Jacques were in blissful ignorance, viz: the election of Col. Calloway. This step was promptly taken, and that gentleman now represents consolidation in Tennessee, being the President of both roads leading from Bristol to Chattanooga, Mr. R. O. Jackson being his Superintendent.

Of the two tickets, it is proper to state that the one advanced in the interest of Mr. Calloway was about to carry by a large majority, when Col. Jacques, who is a very heavy stockholder, stepped forward and departed from the prevailing ticket just sufficiently to secure the election of Mr. Joseph R. Anderson, of Bristol, as one of the Board of Directors. This matter of Mr. Anderson's election is peculiarly gratifying to our people, who certainly deserved a representation upon that board, but have heretofore been without it. The friends of Col. Jacques recognize his right to decline the Presidency of the Tennessee road, or any other position, but there are many of them who at least regret that they were misled in believing that he desired the position, and would surely accept it. As far as Mr. Calloway represents the great principle of Southern consolidation, there will be few progressive minds found unwilling to accept his elevation to the distinguished position he now holds. But if it shall be found that he seeks to revert the great line of roads from Chattanooga to Lynchburg into a feeder for the city of Baltimore, he will find many who will regret the success of his mysterious election, and who will yet rise and confront him with an antagonism which may be yet more feared than it is now respected.

To this subject we may have occasion to refer more than once again. An intelligent explanation of the result at Knoxville may yet be made, but there are many who believe that Col. Jacques alone can make it.

On our first page will be found extracts from a very recent letter from Senator Fowler to Hon. H. S. Foote, whose reply we have not room for. We regret that our space is insufficient for the whole of this very important correspondence. It bears directly and practically upon the great question which must soon be settled, and which concerns the vital interests of the Southern people. The views of Senator Fowler are those of an enlightened and generous Radical, and we believe they are identical with those of Chief Justice Chase. They advocate our immediate restoration to the Union upon the principle of universal amnesty and universal suffrage. This is probably the best basis of settlement we will ever get, and it is required of us by the dominant and conquering party. We believe that, as a subjugated people, we will have to consent to it; and if so, the question arises whether it is wise for us to resist it longer. We think not, and with Mr. Fowler, we believe that our prompt and graceful surrender to these terms will, by its results, soon convince us of the folly of our past efforts to obtain mitigation at the hands of the Northern Democracy, who cannot assist us, and but for selfish motives would never have attempted it.

The Va. & Ky. Railroad has too much vitality to die of poverty. We have a ray of light upon the subject, and we give it to our readers to-day. The report to the city of Louisville, Ky., by its delegation to the Norfolk Convention, gives this great enterprise the prominence which its stupendous importance demands. We publish the larger portion of it on our first page. It will be apparent that Kentucky will extend her road to Cumberland Gap, because our must and shall be built. The backbone of foreign dictation in our railway affairs has been broken in Virginia. The people and our officials have said the Baltimore & Ohio road shall not prevent the building of our road from Bristol to Cumberland Gap.

But we must have legislation anew upon our consolidation bill, and then we will begin again the abandoned work upon the Kentucky road. It is said the Legislature of Tennessee will make, during its present session, an appropriation for the building of a railroad from Johnson to intersect with the Va. & Ky. road at Moccasin Gap.

Mr. Welsh has made an efficient delegate for Sullivan county, and we do not think he will fail in this instance. We do not see, but that the project will be to our advantage.

Should the Stay Law be Extended?
Hon. Fayette McMillin presented a petition of citizens of Virginia, to General Grant against the extension of the stay laws beyond the 1st of January, 1869. Grant expressed himself favorably, but desired to consult Schofield before acting. Schofield, it is understood, opposes the further extension, and advises those who can't pay their debts to take the benefit of the bankruptcy law, and start afresh. Grant's petitioners represent that further extension of the stay laws will involve the credit of the State, and prevent payment of the interest on the State debt.—Washington Telegram.

The stay law in Virginia has been either a great blunder or a great swindle. We incline to think it has partaken of both these delectable qualifications. Instead of becoming a relief it has been an oppression. To-day our people are less able to meet their indebtedness than they were in 1865. Then compromise and concession would have prevailed. Now the creditor will exact his pound of flesh. This measure was passed in the most odious and oppressive shape which legislation could impart to it. The debtor has been nearly four years entirely protected. The creditor has had no redress, but has been forced to behold the property and the person of the debtor disappear. Yet, for the forced forbearance he could not even require security for ultimate payment. This law, we believe, was made in the interest of those who passed it, and against the interests of the whole people.

How shall it be remedied? In the extravagance of their expectations our people have involved themselves in new transactions; and to enforce the old claim implies unparalleled ruin. We say now let Gen. Stoneman require these debts to be paid in five annual installments, provided, those availing themselves of the extension shall secure the payment of the subsequent installments. To do more or less will be worse than repudiation.

We need badly a pike road from Bristol to Taylorsville, Tenn. We hope Mr. Welsh will advocate it with his usual success.

[COMMUNICATED]
Horse-Racing.
Mr. Editor:—In noting the horse-races about town recently, you expressed the hope that a regular race-track would be made near by, and horse-racing be encouraged, as it would greatly improve our breed of horses.

Will you allow us, Sir, to say that we were not a little surprised that one of your intelligence and morality should hold such an opinion—much more, that, as the overseer of the public morals, you should advocate the horse-racing, to be read by them in print, as your calm and decided conviction.

If such be the case, we beg leave to dissent from you, for which we shall very briefly give our reasons. You say that "Racing will improve our breed of horses." True—it will do so as to our race horses, but only but. But is that the kind of horses needed now among us? Will the slim, light, fiery racer do for the wagon and the plow? Experience says not. Then you desire that the strong, sturdy, useful plow-horse is to be sacrificed to the rearing of the useless and expensive racer. That one is only for ornament—the other for utility; the one is a luxury—the other a necessity; the one needed once or twice a year—the other every hour. What of the two should be raised and improved by our people, especially at this time? So much for your argument, and the only one pro, as we think.

Let us now notice some reasons con. We can conceive of nothing so much to be deprecated as the establishment of a public race-track in our vicinity, and the getting up of spirit of racing among our people. What part of the community will mostly fall under its deleterious influence? Certainly it will be our young men. How and where could a deadlier threat be made at the very threshold of youth? It is our young men, and as to the redemption and restoration of our fallen property, all is ruin. Some one may ask how is horse racing going to effect so much evil? We answer that it is a marvellous excitement that is contagious; from one to another, and that it influences the minds for honest business. Who, that has attended a horse-race, does not know how this kind of excitement runs from man to man, till all the worst passions of human nature are aroused to the utmost? Hatred, malice, strife, are its fruits. The horse-racer is a profane swearer—the drinks whiskey—he carries with him pistols and bowie-knives, ready to take the blood of his adversary. What can a man do worse than these? Such are the fruits of all fair racing. But how many races are fair for the people outside? What does that vulgar term "jockeyism" mean? It is no more than a base example of the people's money & a conspiracy of the parties against them. Now, Sir, are these mere assertions or are they facts confirmed by observation. Let that decide the question. If horse-racing is to be for good, let us have a race-track. If it is to do us evil, then, let us not have it. We are no rigid Puritan. We believe in social gatherings and amusements, but let them be literary, musical, or of some worthy object. Having the morality of the people of Bristol near at heart, we for one, are opposed to making horse-racing a custom in our community. We know that any of our citizens should conscience be by being spectators, though they do sit away off on the hills as if they were ashamed of themselves. We hope that you, Mr. Editor, as guardian of the public morals, will see fit to express your motives otherwise in the future.

contained in paragraph of the News a short time since "Amicus" violates the fundamental law of criticism, in taking a part of the subject of the week and giving it a construction foreign to my intentions and the plain reading of the sentence. I advocated the establishment of "a fair-ground and race-course" it would do so much to improve the stock and agricultural interests of the country. I do so because whenever fairs are established agriculture flourishes, and I ask "Amicus" to cite a county in Pennsylvania, New York, or England that is without one. By attacking race-course alone he tacitly approves of the fairground, but I say no fairground is complete without the race-course. His notion of the "Plow-horse" alone being useful is erroneous. No man rides a "Plow-horse" or puts him in a stage or buggy. The race is the only test of a horse's speed. We do not buy horses by weight; that will do for Parisians.

I would have a fair-ground and race course controlled by our citizens, have betting suppressed as far as possible, and when the fair is over close the race course.

"Amicus" has poured a broadside into the open air. That which he opposes I oppose. I am alone responsible for the paragraph and can maintain my position by citing the most flourishing agricultural districts in America and Europe.

"Amicus" must be governed by the rules of criticism. He has misquoted and misunderstood the article alluded to, in every instance.

ELBERT FOWLER

Card of J. Marshall Hanna.

J. Marshall Hanna, associate editor of the Southern Opinion, publishes the following in the Richmond papers:

I was associate editor of the Southern Opinion; as such I wrote most of the original articles that have appeared in its columns. Much I wrote of my own volition, more I wrote by special direction of the editor-in-chief. I prepared that which called the editor his horse. It was prepared by his direction. Afterwards, convinced that his publication would be impulsive, if not unsafe, I asked that the article might be modified, expunged altogether, or the names left blank, or filled with initials that would have left the case without a "local habitation." The article was passed from the control of the editor-in-chief to the control of the associate; it was the property of the editor-in-chief to print or withhold. He was responsible; not I; and no matter how much I had desired the assumption, H. H. Fowler had always assumed it, and he was responsible for every line and paragraph printed in the Opinion. "I am responsible" was his invariable response to applications for redress.

No; the blood of H. H. Fowler, our late associate, is not upon our hands. We are innocent in the sight of God, and shall prove ourselves innocent in the opinion of men. I never intended to publish the article; I never willingly presumed its columns, though I have at times prepared paragraphs for insertion that I knew would be kept in than I did those for whom they were intended.

LEGAL.

Trustees Sale of House & Lot.

By virtue of a deed of trust executed by B. C. Crowell to me for the benefit of W. H. Trammell, I will, on Saturday, the 12th day of December next, on the premises, proceed to sell to the highest bidder, for cash, the house and lot containing one-fourth of an acre, adjoining the lands of Geo. R. Cowan and others, containing, by a recent survey, 3144 acres, more or less. Said land is about one-half cleared, under good fence, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good barn and outbuildings; the remaining portion of the land is well watered, and will be sold on a credit of twelve and eighteen months, purchaser giving approved bond and security, and a lien retained on the property until the money is paid. All persons wishing to examine said land will please call on Dr. R. Cowan.

EXECUTORS SALE.
On Thursday, the 11th of December next, on the premises, we will sell at public auction a tract of land lying and being in Sullivan county, Tenn., one and a half miles west of Bristol, adjoining the lands of Geo. R. Cowan and others, containing, by a recent survey, 3144 acres, more or less. Said land is about one-half cleared, under good fence, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good barn and outbuildings; the remaining portion of the land is well watered, and will be sold on a credit of twelve and eighteen months, purchaser giving approved bond and security, and a lien retained on the property until the money is paid. All persons wishing to examine said land will please call on Dr. R. Cowan.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.—A new edition of Dr. Cutler's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of SPERMATORRHOEA, or Seminal weakness, Impediments to Marriage, etc., etc., Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance. Price, in a sealed envelope, only 5 cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, the specific and radical cure without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure as simple, certain, and as easy, as the use of every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, can cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Letter should be in the hands of every man and every man in the land. Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, postpaid, on receipt of six cents, or two postage stamps. Also, Dr. Cutler's "Medical Dictionary," price 25 cents. Address the Publishers, CHAS. J. C. KLINE & CO., 127 Bowery, New York, Post Office Box 4,586.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

WOMAN—FEMALES, OWING to the peculiar and important relations which they sustain, their peculiar organization, and the various diseases to which they are subject, they require a special and separate treatment. Freedom from these contribute in no small degree to their happiness and welfare, for none can be happy who are ill. Not only so, but no one of vigorous mind and every man in the land, should be without a knowledge of the general health of the individual, and ere long producing permanent sickness and premature decline. Nor is it pleasant to the mind to see a woman suffering from the various delicate affections, and only upon the most urgent necessity will a true woman so far sacrifice her greatest charm as to do this. The sex will then thank us for placing in their hands a simple specific which will be found efficacious in relieving and curing almost every one of those troublesome complaints peculiar to the sex.

HELMHOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU.—Hemorrhoids suffer on in silence, and languish, and others apply vainly to druggists and doctors, who either merely palliate them with the hope of a cure, or apply remedies which make them worse. I would not wish to assert anything that would do injustice to the afflicted, but I am obliged to say that, though it may be produced from excessive exhaustion of the powers of life, by laborious employment, unwholesome animal food, profuse menstruation, the use of tea and coffee, and frequent sexual intercourse, it is far more often caused by direct irritation, applied to the mucous membrane of the vagina itself. When reviewing the causes of these distressing complaints, it is most painful to contemplate the evils consequent upon them. It is but simple justice to the subject to enumerate a few of the many additional causes which so largely affect the life, health and happiness of woman in all classes of society, and which, consequently, affect more or less directly, the welfare of the entire human family. The mania that exists for precocious education and marriage, causes the development to be wasted and perverted, and the result is a premature confinement of school, and especially in the unhealthy excitement of the ballroom. Thus, with body half clothed, and the mind unduly excited by pleasure, perverting in mind, the hours devoted to study by nature or sleep and rest, the work of destruction is half accomplished.

In consequence of this early strain upon her system, unnecessary effort is required by the delicate female to make out her education in school at a later day, thus aggravating the evil. When one excitement is over, another in prospect keeps the mind morbidly sensitive to impression, while the new property is not yet fully developed, and the result is a premature confinement of school, and especially in the unhealthy excitement of the ballroom. Thus, with body half clothed, and the mind unduly excited by pleasure, perverting in mind, the hours devoted to study by nature or sleep and rest, the work of destruction is half accomplished.
